

YOUNG WOMAN HORSETHIEF

PLEADS HYPNOTISM IN HER DEFENSE IN COURT.

Says Companion Arrested With Her Had Complete Control Over Her—Jury Reluctant to Convict After Hearing Her Story—Tells of Many Robberies.

Edna Henry Mann, 37 years old, giving her residence as 137 East Twenty-first street, Manhattan, and claiming to be the wife of Dr. Louis Mann, a surgeon aboard the steamship Caracas of the Red D Line, was convicted yesterday of horse stealing by a jury before Judge Burt J. Humphrey in the Queens County Court, Long Island City.

In the course of the trial Mrs. Mann, testifying in her own defense, told of a series of burglaries and robberies which she alleged she committed while under the hypnotic influence of Sidney Denning, 26 years old. Denning is locked up in the Queens county jail waiting trial on three indictments while a batch of warrants from Staten Island, Brooklyn and New York based on the confession made by Mrs. Mann to District Attorney DeWitt of Queens some time ago are waiting service. Denning says he is a son of Dr. Henry Hunter Denning, a retired surgeon of the United States Navy, who is living at Coney Island.

Mrs. Mann has black hair, gray eyes and a slender figure. She has the appearance of refinement. Despite the fact that she confessed to having participated in more than half a dozen robberies her story of being hypnotized by Denning was so effective that after being out for some time the jury was unable to agree. They asked to be discharged, but Judge Humphrey sent them back for further deliberation. After another hour they returned a verdict of guilty.

The charge against Mrs. Mann was that on December 22 of last year, in company with Denning she stole a horse owned by Herman Faller and a wagon owned by William Ludwig, both of Maspeth, and drove the outfit to Coney Island, where they were arrested while trying to sell it. Although no marriage ceremony had ever been performed, she testified that she was known as Mrs. Mann and she and the Doctor lived together when he was ashore. Her troubles, she testified, began about two years ago, when she met Denning. She said that several times when she sought to break away from Denning he threatened to kill her. Among the robberies she testified to was breaking into the office of Joseph Berner, former President of Queens, who has a monument yard in Middle Village. Here they got away with a typewriting machine and a marble monument, which they loaded into a rig they had hired. She said they had begun trying to open the safe in Berner's office but were frightened away. On another occasion they broke into a carpenter shop in Middle Village and stole all the tools they could find.

Running short of change on a trip through Long Island City, she testified, they broke open a slot machine and cleaned out the money. On Staten Island they broke into a real estate office and carried off a typewriting machine and a bicycle, while the money taken from a storage warehouse in Manhattan netted a rug, a chair, a mirror and an overcoat. They also stole a horse and wagon at Coney Island, which has since been recovered by the police.

Mrs. Mann couldn't tell how much money was realized altogether from the raids. For she declared Denning took charge of the cash.

District Attorney De Witt said his office had investigated the robberies mentioned by the woman and found that her story was true.

Orange Has Its Own Lighting Plant.

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 18.—After many delays caused largely by the opposition of the Public Service Corporation the city of Orange was last night lighted by the municipal lighting plant. One wire crossed a dead tree and caused a slight blaze, and one lamp fell, but on the whole the first night passed off with practically perfect success. The first steps toward municipal lighting of the streets were taken two years ago.
